CONSOLIDATION

Citizens Being Aroused to Its Importance—Mr. McNutt Replies to Mr. Kelly

Glendale, Caly., Sept. 16, 1910.
Editor GLENDALE NEWS,
Glendale, California.

Dear Sir: Annexation to the City of Glendale being the subject claiming our attention, I am presuming on the liberality of the editor of the NEWS for a little space in the columns of his paper, as well as the patience of the people who may care to read what I have to say.

We, as a people, have heard the question discussed from almost every standpoint. There has been much discussion, both in the meetings held in Glendale and vicinity and in the homes of our people, the general trend of which discussion has been to obtain correct information and actual facts, both for and against annexing to Glendale. While considering this question, we have naturally considered the advisability of the territory so proposed to be annexed, incorporating as a separate municipality, or annexing itself to the city of Los Angeles, and, while every effort has been made by those favoring annexation to the city of Glendale, to have a free and liberal discussion of the question on its merits, there have been times when the issue has been clouded by persons who have been misled by wrong impressions, or by prejudice, and whose judgment of the actual conditions and facts could not be relied on as well as those who have nothing in view but the object of building here, in the southern part of the San Fernando Valley, a city that will be a credit to its people and a good place to live, with the best possible improvements and conveniences at the least and most economical expenditure of money.

Most people who build homes, such as we have in this valley, want the benefits and advantages that come with and are the result of a well-governed city. For those who simply want to live in the country, and care nothing for the things municipal government brings with it, I have nothing to say, except that most of us cannot afford to surround ourselves, at our expense, with the protection and conveniences which a city, well governed, surrounds us.

Out of all this discussion and thought a number of facts have been evolved, and I submit a few of them, as they have appealed to me, to the unbiased judgment of a people in whom I have the utmost confidence that they will do the right, as the right appears to them.

Taxes in the territory proposed to be annexed will, very likely, be increased. The amount of that increase will not, at the most, exceed the difference between our municipal taxes in Glendale, and the road tax on the outside territory. The valuation of Glendale property for municipal purposes, has never been high, and the rate for this fiscal year, as I am informed, is established at $1.13 per $100 valuation. The road tax, on last year's valuation, on county property, was 55c per $100 valuation (the county valuation being generally higher than Glendale's city valuatons) which would make a difference of approximately 58c per $100 valuation.

Supposing that one is paying on a $1,000 assessed valuation, the difference in favor of the outside territory would be approximately $5.80. Now, to use an argument which has been heretofore used, and which in all fairness we cannot but admit is a conclusive one, we will suppose that you reside in Tropico, and are using electric lights. You will pay $1.50 as the minimum per month, and 15 cents per kilowatt for all excess, while for the same amount, just across the line, in the City of Glendale, you will pay $1 as the minimum, and 10 cents per kilowatt for all excess. Assuming that you use only the minimum (and as the nights grow longer you use more), you find yourself paying $6 a year more than your neighbor who lives just across the line, in Glendale. This is not taking into account the cost of the meter, $15, and, as in the past, the cost of wire and poles, which you have to pay if you live on the outside of Glendale, and your receipt for payment of the same would generally show that you were paying for "service," instead of actually building up a lighting system, which you do not own after paying for it. As a business proposition alone, this would appeal to me.

Glendale also has the streets well lighted by an economical system, and the municipal lighting plant has paid its own way, taken care of its bonds, and the city is simply loaning its credit to the lighting plant, and is not taxing the people to retire the bonds.

Now, this is a decided advantage to residents of Glendale, and largely, if not altogether, overcomes the question of additional taxes. Always remembering that by living in a municipality your property is worth more, and you get value received many times over the small advance.

To extend the lighting system in the said territory so proposed to be annexed would probably require the voting of additional bonds, which would be borne by the entire territory—that is, Glendale and the annexed territory—but there is no reason to believe that the people would be taxed for the same, as it would simply be a loaning of its credit, as heretofore shown, for, with the increased number of subscribers, the profits would increase.

We have as yet no city buildings, except our firehouse. If we ever expect to have a Greater Glendale, it must surely come from the outside territory. City buildings will cost the taxpayers additional taxes, and to build a city hall, library and fire departments, and to buy up-to-date fire equipments, will cost more. It would not be wise to build public buildings for a city of our present size if we expect to grow larger in territory, nor would it be fair to the taxpayers of Glendale to be taxed for buildings and equipments for a city as large as we hope to have.

The same is true of acquiring property for parks. With a small asssessment on a larger district we can acquire just as much as with a large assessment on a small district.

I do not think anyone questions the need of better fire protection, nor the need of better police protection. All of these things we can acquire, and have much better and cheaper to the individual taxpayer, when we have more assessable property.

With our present assessable value in Glendale of one and one-half million dollars, in round numbers, we raise a tax of about $16,000, or did last year. With the proposed territory to be annexed, we would have about three and one-quarter millions assessable value. Supposing we would want $25,000 for expenses, it is an easy calculation to see that the rate would be lower than last year.

The question of sewers is one to be considered, and at meetings held heretofore the question has been discussed, and whether we build a sewer to connect with an outfall sewer, or whether we establish a septic tank system, is a problem of the future. We cannot hope to meet it as separate communities as well as we can united.

The same is surely true of our water supply. If the rates of water and the installing of larger supply mains and pipes is to be regulated, we can certainly accomplish more as a unit than as communities, and whether we acquire the water of Verdugo Canyon as a municipal plant, or establish a distributing plant and buy our water from the City of Los Angeles after the Owens River is brought here, we surely can do it better as one city than as separate districts, and I think the same holds good of all public utilities.

Eventually we may desire to annex to Los Angeles, but that is probably too far off to appeal to us at this time. The condition of the newly annexed territory to Los Angeles, as represented to us, will answer that question more eloquently than I could hope to, and as to organizing a separate city of the sixth class, or any other class, in Tropico and other outside territory, it is well to remember that the cost of maintenance of a city government must be met, and the taxes will naturally be increased to more than they would be if the same territory annexed to Glendale. It would be well for those favoring separate incorporation to take up the matter with the city officials of Glendale, and find out the facts.

As to putting off annexation to Glendale. What is to be gained by it? Each year keeps back improvements and inreased valuations of the property owners. With a united city we will advance to the front rank as a city of homes, with a fine climate, and a near neighbor of Los Angeles. We will have a most desirable place for people to join us in building a progressive city that will really and truly stand for all its name, "Jewel City," means in the best sense.

As to our changing the class of our city, or obtaining for ourselves a freeholders' charter, let the people themselves determine. We certainly want the best government we can get, as long as we can get the good things at reasonable cost.

While it is true that we may not all think alike in this matter, let us have patience with those who do not see the matter in the same light that we do. If we will let our best judgment and reason govern us, with a view not only of today, but of the future, I feel sure that the result will be what we want, and that is a united people, in building up a great city, with one interest and a common benefit to all.

MR. McNUTT SEARCHES FOR KELLY.

This article is not a rejoinder to the "Glendale Property Owners," but is only a search for Gibson P. Kelly. This man says he is from Missouri, but he is not; he is from Ireland. P is always for Patrick. We all knew Pat Kelly in the East, and there he always admitted that he was from Ireland. He comes out to Glendale and tries to sail under false colors by signing his name Gibson P. Kelly and telling that he is from Missouri. There is another way you can find him, without looking at his name. He tries to be smart, witty and cute, and personal. Now watch him.

In some parts of the state, when a farmer finds a piece of ground is getting poor, he will not continue to sow it in grain, but allow it to stand idle for a year. During the idle summer it will overgrow with a poor, inferior, worthless, bastard crop, and the farmers call this "volunteer." The "Glendale Property Owners" did not consider it any use to sow more grain, but we have a crop of "volunteer" from Gibson Pat Kelly. He does not admit being a property owner, but only "a resident of Glendale." He does not assume to belong to the class of people who do thinking, either, but simply sits and looks on as things progress. According to Pat's system of reasoning, electricity would be expensive at my place, because it is outside the city, and is cheap at his house, as it is, of course, inside the line; but, judging from the reading of his article, I venture that if you go to his place (if you can possibly find it) it will be discovered that he is not using much electricity, but has been consuming an over-supply of gas, especially since he attended the picnic up at Verdugo Park.

There are some fine statements in his article, but, unfortunately for Pat, all of the good parts had to be put within quotation marks.

Pat is what is called a sophist, and when he goes into figures he is like a fly and a mosquito when they climb into the web of a spider. He says West Glendale and Tropico will each need a new schoolhouse in the future, and that these, with electric lights, will cost $100,000, and that Glendale City must pay for fifty-nine per cent of this cost. Now listen, and mark: "By refusing to consolidate, Glendale will save over $4,000 in cash, and will own and control both of these buildings." So, then, if Glendale City would just sit down and watch the building of the Hall of Records beside the county court house in Los Angeles, she would own and control that building, and find many thousands of dollars in her pockets. From this it will appear that Pat can scarcely come up as high even as the title of sophist.

And he must have the disease called presbyopia, for he can see away over to West Glendale and Tropico and find out that they will need new schoolhouses in the future, but he can't see under his nose and ascertain the well-known fact that Glendale is now in immediate need of a new schoolhouse, and perhaps two of them, and she must pay 100 per cent of their cost. So, by his own reasoning, it would mean money for Glendale to consolidate, for West Glendale and Tropico would pay forty-one per cent of the cost of Glendale schools.

If he had studied mathematics he would know that a line cannot be seen, and evidently he hasn't even imagination, for he does not seem to know that Glendale City and Glendale School District are not the same thing. To be fair, he must take the valuation of Glendale City and compare it with the value of all the part to be annexed, which he has failed to do.

Pat does not believe in park places. He says: "For larger playgrounds, where children and young men and women can assemble and indulge in the games and athletic contests, the fine grounds of the splendid schools are available." He might put on his best spectacles and take his yardstick some morning, and measure up the fine grounds of the two Glendale public schools (the high school does not belong to Glendale), and he will see at once how very small and wholly inadequate they are, and how poorly they compare with those of Tropico and West Glendale.

But, incorrect as his figures and reasonings are concerning the schools, they would not apply at all to the other civic improvements needed, nor to running expenses. For there must be a number of schoolhouses, and they must be distributed over the district. But one library building, one city hall, one park and one good fire outfit would in each case serve the large city. This would be a great saving, as all would be taxed alike for the same thing.

Then the running expenses for the municipal corporation would not be so much more for the enlarged city than for the small one, as there would be about the same officers and things current needed, and with the added taxable property it leaves less to pay by the people now inside. Also the larger city could deal so much more economically and better with the sewer matter, the water and gas and light problems.

But money and expenses are not the only things to be noted. There are a thousand other reasons why Glendale should expand and grow, and why it would be good for her to do so.

There may be some little ambitious towns in the lower districts of Ireland where each man has his sewer system in his own back yard, as this man Pat Kelly wants it, and where the people have no civic improvements, and nothing to use and look at but air and sunshine, and where people get their education by going to parks on picnic days and hearing the after-dinner speeches there, but it is not the American way. To be "going some" is what we like, and if it does cost us something, let us pay for it.

There are a few people in every town who, like Gibson Pat Kelly, are not in favor of progress, and who will try to sit upon the brakes of the wagon, even when it is going up hill, but I am sure they are not of sufficient numbers in Glendale to do any harm. He should join the Valley Improvement Association or some other "living" institution, and post up on facts and figures. Gas is not the only thing with which a man may fill himself.

And there is now a golden opportunity to Glendale. There are not two sides to this matter. It is only a question as to whether or not Glendale will remain a small, inferior town, or become a city of great influence and usefulness.

P. S. McNUTT.

IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION MEETING.

There was a well attended meeting of the Glendale Valley Improvement Association held at K. of P. hall Thursday evening of last week. Mr. Owen Emery sang a solo accompanied by Mrs. Gibson, which was highly appreciated by the audience. Captain J. M. Wells was the principal speaker of the evening and treated the subject of consolidation from a broad standpoint of progressive citizenship, making a number of good points in favor of the movement. Afterwards during a lull in the proceedings he showed his versatality by reciting a humorous poem. Mrs. Nanno Woods sang an Irish song and as an encore gave a very funny Irish monologue in charming style. Mr. W. C. Wattles spoke on his favorite subject, consolidation, giving as he always does a number of unanswerable arguments in its favor. Mr. Frank H. Davis of Tropico, well-known as an opponent of consolidation, was called upon to express his views and responded by reading a communication from himself appearing in the GLENDALE NEWS. After this a number of questions were asked Mr. Davis and in reply to them he inadvertently stepped over the parliamentary line and was called to order by the chairman and some members of the association. A few warm words were exchanged, but before it became necessary to call out the police department a little oil was poured on the troubled waters and Sweet Peace was brooding benevolently over the scene when adjournment took place.

CITY TRUSTEES

Protest Against Proposed Alley—Property Owners Want to Know About Sixth Street

The Board met at 8 o'clock. All members present. Routine business was disposed of.

Mr. C. E. Stanley appeared before the Board to protest against the existence of an alley opposite his property, as shown by the map filed by B. F. Patterson in the resubdivision of his Fourth street lots, the said alley running east and west from Franklin court to Everett street. The city attorney advised that the Board had no jurisdiction.

A delegation of property owners from East Sixth street appeared before the Board to inquire why it had been thus far impossible to get that street improved, as the first proceedings were taken a year ago. City Attorney Baker explained that there were a large number of defendants in the case, scattered in various places over the country, all of whom had to be served; that this service had been completed last June, and soon after that date the court adjourned for a six weeks' vacation. Upon the reopening of the court, the referees would be appointed, and the matter pushed as rapidly as possible.

Bids on improvement of Fourth street were opened and read, as follows: F. R. Sinclair, grading 35 cents, oiling 2 11-16 cents, curb 22 cents. G. B. Mock, grading 30 cents, oiling 2¾ cents, curb 25 cents. Bids for the improvement of Franklin court were opened and read, as follows: F. R. Sinclair, grading 25 cents, oiling 3 cents, curb 22 cents. G. B. Mock, grading 25 cents, oiling .08 cents, curb 25 cents. On motion, the contracts on both streets were awarded to the lowest bidder, F. R. Sinclair. The fact was called to the attention of the Board that no reply had been received from the Consolidated Water Company, and the matter was referred to the city attorney.

The office of city dog catcher was declared vacant.

Mr. E. G. Pack appeared as representative of the business concerns between Howard street and Glendale avenue, and between First and Third streets, requesting that, for the protection of lumber yards, etc., from danger by fire, the alley be closed from 5 or 5:30 p. m. until an early hour in the morning. The matter was referred to the street superintendent, with power to act.

The matter of prohibiting the use of tobacco on Glendale street cars, as requested by the W. C. T. U. at the last meeting of the trustees, was discussed informally at considerable length, and developed into a regular experience meeting. Coming down to business finally, a motion prevailed that a non-smoking ordinance similar to that adopted in Los Angeles be prepared; also that dealers be prohibited from selling tobacco in any form to minors. The fire chief was instructed to investigate conditions in the lumber yard district, and bring in a report at the next meeting.

OLD SETTLERS PICNIC.

The Old Settlers picnic at Verdugo Park Saturday last was an enjoyable but entirely informal affair. A bountiful luncheon consisting of a wonderful variety of the best specimens of home-made cookery was spread on a long table in the shade of the alder and sycamore trees by the clear flowing stream and was emphatically the most successful feature of the day. Robert Taylor of Tropico presided at the coffee urn (?) and the quantities of the amber hot fluid that he poured for the picnickers would make a postum manufacturer feel discouraged. After luncheon there was a recitation from old-timer Ed Ayers, a talk from Rev. Henry and a song by one of the visiting ladies. A Sazerac Lying club was informally in session a good part of the day and when the meeting broke up honors were pretty even between old-timers Ed Ayers, P. H. Bullis and Sidney Dell. The first named gentleman would easily have got away with the honors had it not been for the suspicious chestnutty appearance of some of his side-winders.

Postmaster Clippinger and his wife of Huntington Beach were among the first comers with a heavily laden basket that went back empty. Mr. and Mrs. Thorn and Mrs. Pomeroy of Burbank were also large contributors to the bill of fare and the enjoyment of the occasion. Mrs. Spear of Verdugo road distributed some of the famous Blue Ribbon grapes, in clusters of five pounds and upwards, where they would do the most good. Mrs. Ed Ayers was everywhere in evidence exerting herself to make everybody feel at home and trying to induce them to overeat. Messrs. Devine, Cook, Hodgson and their better halves who never miss these occasions, represented their portion of Tropico. These three families are among the really first comers to the valley at the beginning of its real development along about 1881. Messrs. Cornwell, Ogden and Rich were among the early arrivals on the ground, the latter being also one of the oldest of the old-timers present. Of course, Mr. B. F. Patterson was there, he and one other being the last of the thirteen men who in 1883 bought land in Glendale, locating east of Glendale avenue south of First street. Messrs. Griswold and Goode and their wives were present, as was the president of the association, Mr. J. C. Sherer, all doing their best to make the affair a success.

ABOUT YOUR TAXES

County Fixes Same Rate as Last Year—School Rate Not Yet Named

The state and county tax rate for the coming year will be 90 cents, exactly the same as last year.

The supervisors decided upon 54.7 cents as the county rate, which with the state rate of 35.3 makes the total 90 cents.

This rate will raise $2,465,214 in taxes within the county of Los Angeles upon a net valuation of $504,768,157, including $8,889,005 as railroad valuation.

The road tax rate for districts outside incorporated cities was fixed at 60 cents, an increase over last year's road rate.

Special school levies, varying from a few cents to $1.50 were fixed for 70 school districts of the county.

The county levy of 54.7 cents was arrived at after cutting the art museum appropriation from $250,000 to $201,000; the hall of records furniture from $200,000 to $121,000; and by making big cuts in the salary lists and general expenses.

Following is the way the $2,465,000 is divided according to the different funds:

Fund	Amount raised	Rate
General	$605,720	.12
Salary	252,385	.05
Hospital	302,860	.06
Hospital building	65,620	.013
Common school	814,626	.18
Exposition	10,095	.002
Good roads interest and sinking fund	50,476	.01
Courthouse furniture	121,144	.024
Detention home	40,381	.008
Art museum	201,907	.04

Special taxes were fixed as follows:

Lighting districts: Sherman, .84; Downey, .58; Manhattan, .68; Norwalk, .62.

New San Gabriel levee district, .64.

In addition, special school rates were fixed for 70 common school districts and for the various high schools.

The rate for Glendale Union high school is .59; for Burbank, .96, the latter having the highest rate of any district in the county.

Not counting the school rates, the state and county tax for all districts outside of incorporated cities will be $1.50, this including the road tax of 60 cents.

The grammar school rates are not yet announced. Last year the special school rate in Glendale City was .83 cents. This year it will probably be about .80. It will be noticed that of the 90-cent rate fixed by state and county, .18 cents is for common schools, so that for school purposes every district is paying the 18-cent rate plus its district rate, which in Glendale City, assuming the special rate to be 80 cents, makes the total school rate 98 cents.

Last year the total state, county, road and tax rate in West Glendale was 2.88; in Tropico 2.21, not including the 40 per cent raise by the state board. This year there will probably be but little change. In Glendale City this year (assuming an 80-cent special school rate again) the total rate, including Glendale City tax, will be 2.83. As there will be no 40 per cent raise this year, taxes all around should be something less than then, there being an increased valuation.

BASEBALL NOTES.

Last Saturday the Verdugos were defeated in a non-league game with the Columbians; score 1-2 in the latter's favor.

On Sunday the Verdugos defeated the Manchesters with a score of 17-0. As usual Gervais' pitching was phenomenal, the other team only securing two hits, and he struck out thirteen men. Another feature of the game was the first home run ever made on the Verdugo diamond. The credit of this also goes to Gervais.

This coming Saturday the Verdugos will meet the Echo Park team and it is expected that Gervais will pitch.

On Sunday they will meet the Los Angeles Bricks with their usual Sunday line-up. Both games to be called at 2:45 p. m.

LOS ANGELES—GLENDALE WEDDING.

Last Wednesday evening, Miss Lillian Frost of Los Angeles was united in marriage to Mr. Albert McDonald of Brand boulevard, Glendale.

The wedding was a very quiet affair at the home of the bride in Los Angeles. Only the immediate relatives of the bride and groom were present.

Mr. and Mrs. McDonald will make their future home in Los Angeles.

GLENDALE BAND.

The Glendale Band has formally organized with Mr. F. C. Thorpe elected director; Mr. J. F. McIntyre, treasurer; Mr. H. Carey, property man, and Mr. G. H. Barager, manager.

The members meet every Tuesday evening for rehearsal at 552 West Fourth street, and excellent work is being accomplished. They soon expect to treat the public to a street concert.

GLENDALE, CAL., SEPTEMBER 23, 1910

Alhambra by a vote of three to two of its board of trustees has decided to make a contract with the Pacific Light and Power Co. for an electric lighting system after a fruitless agitation for a municipal plant.

The NEWS takes pleasure in turning down this week an offer from the circus people to treat us to two fifty cents tickets for four dollars worth of advertising. If our contemporaries would systematically do the same, the value of the "country" press would be advanced proportionately.

Frank Coons has been sentenced in a Fresno court to three years in San Quentin for a recent burglary. Coons who is said to have served a term in the penitentiary, was recently convicted in a Los Angeles court for a similar offense, supposed to be one of many, and was turned loose on parole. As we have remarked before the "parole business" is being overworked.

The consolidation campaign goes merrily on. No question ever before our people, not even the original proposition to incorporate the city, ever aroused more general interest. As a proponent of the idea we welcome debate and the columns of the NEWS are open equally to both sides, but we cannot use everything that is offered and articles should be condensed and writers must adhere closely to their text, leaving out personalities which only befog the issue. We have one or two excellent articles on file from esteemed correspondents which will be published in due time. Those appearing in this issue do not by any means exhaust the supply.

A matter of great importance to Glendale, the opening of Sixth street, is reported by the city attorney to be delayed by the fact that the court in which the matter is to be tried, is closed for six weeks while the judge, and presumably the other officers of the court take a vacation. It seems to us an inexcusable condition of affairs, which compels the public to wait for weeks for cases to be brought to trial, simply in order to allow a few public officials to go to the mountains or the seashore and enjoy themselves. It is preposterous that cases, more or less important, should be permitted to be pigeon-holed for such a reason. Possibly the judges are overworked, although that is doubtful; but the courts of justice should never close on any except the usual holidays. No doubt the salaries of the judge and his clerk and bailiff keep right on working.

The Graphic of Los Angeles says: "One of the curiosities of the recent primary election is found in the fact that 325,000 citizens of California registered as Republicans, which is about 100,000 more than voted for Taft two years ago. The jurists who fathered the direct primary law may now realize that they have invented a scheme which has demoralized the public conscience to an appalling degree. Purity in politics will never be attained by a deliberate invitation to wholesale fraud. The first experiment in California of direct primaries has demonstrated that we are farther away from representative government than ever before. When thousands of citizens can register and vote under false colors, the will of the majority of a party easily can be overwhelmed, and the whole theory and system of representative government are upset."

The daily papers recently contained a report of the bankruptcy of one of the eucalyptus planting concerns that flourished a few months ago. They have not all gone out of business, however, notwithstanding the hard jolts which they have recently received. One of these concerns advertising in the daily papers of Los Angeles, quotes from "Bulletin Number Seven, California Forestry Service," as follows:

"The grower, who by proper planting and care produces 100,000 feet of timber on an acre in ten years' time, can safely expect a net return of $2500. This is not unreasonable, and may be accepted as the standard of stumpage value per acre of first-class eucalyptus of marketable size."

Other and similar bulletins in regard to eucalyptus have been turned out by this same forestry bureau. It is very doubtful indeed if the writer of this bulletin can point to any ten-year-old eucalyptus grove in existence that is worth the figure named in addition to the cost of production and interest on the money invested. It is not rash to assume that the California Forestry bureau is giving employment to some of Mr. Gifford Pinchot's high-priced young men who have learned their forestry in college at the expense of the government.

THE NEWS is in receipt of an announcement of the Aim and Purpose of the "National League for Medical Freedom," having a local representation in Los Angeles, as follows:

"To defeat paternal, unnecessary, extravagant, un-American medical legislation is the purpose of the National League for Medical Freedom. This league is not opposed to sanitation or quarantine properly administered and it makes no war on and has no quarrel with the faithful medical practitioner of whatever school.

Nor is it opposed to the needed work of the state, county or municipal authorities along these lines; but it is opposed to any clique of political doctors which seeks to dominate the legislation of state and national government for the purpose of increasing their power and furthering their own ambitions, all under the pretense of the public weal.

It will seek through publicity and education to unmask and oppose any legislation which endeavors to put into power any one system of healing and use the government prestige, money and machinery to enforce its theories and opinions upon citizens who believe in other forms of healing.

It is non-sectarian and non-political.

Of the necessity for such an organization and the work it is doing the NEWS will have something to say in future.

WHAT WILL THEY DO?

An interesting political situation has developed in Los Angeles and the outcome will be watched with interest. There is a "Good Government" organization there which is supposed to be non-partisan. Now it happens that many of its leading members are also members of the Lincoln-Roosevelt organization which as a result of the late primary election has devolving upon it the conduct of the Republican campaign in the county. The Good Government people have endorsed a majority of the nominees of the Republican party, but they balk at Captain Fredericks, candidate for district attorney, and a few others. They have endorsed or will endorse Woolwine, the Democratic candidate for district attorney. The problem is this, will the members of the Republican committee who also belong to the other organization, do their plain duty as committeemen and support the full Republican ticket, or otherwise? The point is this—take the case of Meyer Lissner, for instance. He is a leader in both organizations and is opposed to Fredericks. If he remains on the committee charged with the duty of endeavoring to elect the entire list of officials on the Republican ticket, he cannot in honor support Woolwine—but his loyalty to the Good Government league demands that he do so. There are a number of others who occupy this unenviable dual position and it looks to the man up a tree as if they would have to do some skilful shuffling.

The popularity of ex-President Roosevelt appears to grow rather than to diminish and he no doubt stands today in the position of the foremost citizen of the world, notwithstanding the fact that he occupies no official position. But here and there are evidences of an opposition to him which cannot be attributed to political causes only, and his critics certainly make good some of their charges against him. One of his sharpest critics is the New York Evening Post which in a recent issue accuses him of inconsistency and of playing to the gallery. The Post points to the fact that when Colonel Roosevelt found that it suited his purpose to be on friendly terms with men whom he now denounces, he did not apparently shrink from such intimacy. There were times in his political career when he paid court to such men as Harriman, Hanna, Quay, Aldrich and Cannon. His refusal to dine at the same table with Senator Lorimer (accused but not convicted) is thought by the Post to be the acme of inconsistency, in view of certain historical facts. Colonel Roosevelt denies the assertion made in the Post as to the Harriman campaign contribution, and that paper in reply publishes Roosevelt's own letter to Harriman on the subject and the latter's account of the affair. Colonel Roosevelt in his recent speeches has said so much that is true and altogether worth while, that one would like to think him infallible if it were not for the reflection that infallibility is not a mortal attribute, and the Colonel is most intensely mortal. If he had been content to retire permanently to private life with the laurels that were so securely his when he left the white house, it would probably have been better for his place in history. As it is, he is courting a fate similar to that of many good men who have gone before him, who having achieved a full measure of fame have been led by the plaudits of the people to grasp for more until overladen with the accumulation they have slopped over and degenerated into common scolds.

CONSOLIDATION OF CITY AND COUNTY.

Mayor Alexander has given out that he proposes to call in the near future a convention to take the initial steps toward the consolidation of a city and county government for Los Angeles. One of the first things that it would be necessary to do to start this movement successfully would be to get the legislature to pass the requisite laws to make the desired object attainable. It will therefore be necessary if the matter is to be started at all within the next two years that this convention be called very soon and that the committees that have to be appointed get to work on the large job that will be laid out for them. A letter received within a day or two, however, from a gentleman who is on the inside of the political machine in Los Angeles and who stands high with the reform element, says:

"With respect to renewed agitation for consolidation of city and county governments, which has recently been so pronounced, I believe it would be a very unfortunate thing for both city and county should any effort be made at this time to carry it through. I am satisfied, however, from some matters now pending, that the proposed conference if called by the mayor will not be called immediately and that a number of reasons have been brought or shortly will be brought to his attention which will be sufficient to deter him from taking any speedy action."

The consolidation of the county and city governments so as to save the expense of the duplication of a number of offices, is a common sense proposition which appeals favorably to almost everyone theoretically. In order to put it into practical effect, however, a great many things have to be considered and before it is accomplished there will have to be long campaign of education. The plan will have to be first formulated and its provisions made familiar to the people, and it is quite possible that it will be difficult or even impossible at the first trial to get up a proposition that will be generally acceptable.

The bearing of this matter upon the proposed consolidation of Glendale and adjacent territory, is absolutely nothing, for whether it ultimately takes place or not this community will still have to solve its own local problems and pay its own local taxes just the same. It should be borne in mind that the proposition of Mayor Alexander is not for an actual consolidation of Los Angeles and surrounding territory into one municipality but merely for a consolidation of certain offices.

MR. AND MRS. V. PRICE BROWN SURPRISED.

A genuine surprise occurred last Friday evening, when seventeen of the Country Club couples decided to remember the fifteenth or crystal wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. V. Price Brown.

The crowd assembled at the home of Mrs. Eddy, on the corner of Maryland and Durand avenues, and from there proceeded to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Brown, entering through the back door.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown were seated on their front veranda, enjoying the moonlight. Imagine their surprise when the house was suddenly illuminated by electric lights, and someone began playing their piano.

The early part of the evening was spent playing five hudred, during which time a committee took charge of the dining room.

The tables were formed in a large T, and great masses of pink Cochet roses made centerpieces. The pink petals were scattered over the white cloths, and a large pink rose marked each individual place.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown were given the places of honor at dinner, at the close of which they were presented with an exceptionally handsome cut glass pitcher, a dozen cut glass goblets, and a large mirror plate.

At a late hour the guests adjourned, after wishing their host and hostess every possible joy for the ensuing years.

STUDENTS WELCOME.

The city library now contains the Twentieth Century Encyclopedias, the Encyclopedias of Carpentry and Building, the Learned Histories, and various other excellent reference works, besides complete sets of the works of Thackeray, Stevenson, Riley, Eliot, Balzac, Bulwer, Dumas, Hugo, Dickens, Kipling and Scott.

Not only the students, but anyone else engaged in reference work, will be more than welcomed at the library, where all its resources will be placed at their disposal, and where Mrs. Danford, the librarian, will be glad to lend what assistance she can.

The number of card holders now extends beyond two thousand, and last month the circulation exceeded twenty-five hudred. A number of new books have been ordered and will soon be placed on the shelves.

WORTH-WHILE CLUB.

Mrs. M. P. Harrison's class of the Presbyterian Sunday school has organized into a society known as the "Worth-While Club," for philanthropic and social purposes.

The club wishes to enlarge itself and most cordially invites others to join. It will be open for charter membership until October seventeenth Meetings are held the first Tuesday and third Monday of each month at the homes of the members.

Those who belong are as follows: Misses Furst, Harrison, Hedges, Jackson, Klincke, Lyons, McIver, Nichols, Riem, Severance, Sinclair, Sprinkle and Wilson.

The officers of the club are: Miss Wilson, president; Miss Lyons, secretary and treasurer; Miss Klincke assistant secretary and correspondent

It is hoped that a hearty response will be made to the invitation for new members in order to make the club really worth while.

A HAPPY AFTERNOON.

Miss Louise and Master Frank Hester entertained with a charming party Thursday afternoon at their home on Maple avenue.

There were present, as guests, thirty of their little friends. Numerous games were played on the spacious lawn, for which appropriate prizes were awarded the successful contestants, after which a delicious collation of ice cream, cake and bon bons was served in the dining room, which was beautifully decorated in crimson, the lights, festoons and table decorations carrying out the color scheme. The following ladies were asked to participate: Mrs. John Hunchberger, Dr. Jessie Russel, Mrs. V. Price Brown, Mrs. E. L. Dorning, Mrs. Begg, Mrs. Foster and Miss Waite.

MYOSOTUS WHIST CLUB.

The Myosotus Whist Club reorganized and met for the first time this year at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fish, on Maryland avenue, last Thursday evening.

The greater part of the evening was spent at the card tables. At the close of the game, first prizes were awarded to Mrs. H. M. Beamon and Mr. Frank Hilliard. Miss May Fanset presided over the punch bowl, and Miss Griffith aided Mrs. Fish in serving refreshments.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Beamon, Dr. and Mrs. McGuire, Mr. and Mrs. Whaley, Mr. and Mrs. Le Grande, Mr. and Dr. Russel, Mr. and Mrs. Earl C. Hammon, Miss Fancet, Miss Griffith, Mr. Calkins and Mr. Hilliard.

RECEPTION FOR TEACHERS.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Sixth Street Grammar School gave an informal reception for the teachers on Friday afternoon, which was undoubtedly one of the most pleasant affairs ever given by the association, a large number of the mothers availing themselves of the opportunity to welcome the teachers at the beginning of the school year.

The daintily appointed punch table was presided over by Miss Waite, Mrs. Wayne P. Snow, Mrs. Frank Hester and Mrs. Grosvenor.

There were present a large number of mothers who have recently moved to Glendale, who expressed themselves as delighted with the cordial atmosphere existing in the association.

N. B.

Don't forget to notice the sewing machine which stands in front of one of the business houses near the corner of Fourth and Glendale avenue.

The machine, which is an old-style Domestic, and is about twenty-five years old, will sew through the lids of two cigar boxes, making a perfect stitch. The needle employed is the same one which has previously been used in the machine for ordinary sewing. Proof of this statement exists in the covers of the two boxes, which still remain under the foot of the machine, exhibiting the rows of stitching.

Advertisements in the News Bring Results

In renewing his subscription to the NEWS, Mr. T. L. Puckett who will be remembered by friends in Glendale, writing from his present home in Shelbina, Mo., says:

Crops fine in Missouri, corn and oats never better, but California climate beats them all and for that reason there is no telling the future of California. Please remember me to Ed Lee and any other inquiring friends; also to the Hovis'. Am able to get about real well, but my health is not the best. Did you hear about the election in Maine?

As Mr. Puckett is a good old Missouri Democrat, we imagine that he is not downcast in regard to Maine.

M. Adrian King, of East Sixth street, has been sued by his wife, Fanny Briggs Carr King, for divorce. A Los Angeles paper publishes an interview with the lady, in which she accuses Mr. King of taking her property and abusing her.

Mr. Hugh Craig, of Burbank, was in Glendale the other day. He assured the NEWS man that Burbank is now sure of an electric railroad, as the right of way has been secured, and a good portion of the bonus raised. The proposed road will strike off from the Pacific Electric in the neighborhood of Arden avenue, in Glendale, just south of the wash.

Tuesday morning last there was a tie-up on the Pacific Electric, caused by an acident in Los Angeles, only about one train each way getting through before 9 o'clock. The congestion at various points along the line suggested a picnic, as crowds of people accumulated. Many passengers went into Los Angeles over the Eagle Rock line.

THE BEAUTIFUL BRITISH ISLES.

Brief Extracts from Hasty Home Letters from Miss Anita Wells. Manor House Hotel.

Leamington Spa., July 13, 1910.

In London we got glimpses of so much but really saw very little. We visited London Tower, the British museum and National Gallery where we saw noted pictures by Reubens, Gainsborough, Landseer, Van Dyke, West, Twiner and others. At Kensington Palace where Queen Victoria was born, we saw paintings by noted artists and some of her playthings. The grounds are lovely. We were around and in Windsor Castle. One evening went to the Military Pageant representing England's possessions which was interesting.

One afternoon we were invited by Mlle. Marchesi to hear her sing. She is the daughter of Madame Marchesi who was the great French singer and teacher.

Yesterday we visited the college at Oxford which was interesting. Saw some beautiful stained glass and painted windows and paintings by noted artists and the old kitchens with the old fireplaces. A Shelley memorial is there and some of the grounds are lovely. The cook had been making strawberry jam and some of us had a taste. No time for details.

We saw Banbury Cross and I bought some cakes at the "original cake shop." Getting off our train at Althorp Park we had a beautiful drive. Saw the one time home of Lawrence Washington and in the old church there we saw the crest from which our stars and stripes are said to have come.

Reached this swell Manor House hotel last night just in time for dinner. The grounds are beautiful and there are the most beautiful white roses here that I ever saw. This morning we had a beautiful drive to Kenilworth and Warwick Castles. Kenilworth is a ruin, but Warwick is occupied and we were shown through some of the rooms. The grounds are the most beautiful that I have ever seen anywhere. After lunch we drove to Shakespeare's birthplace and to the church where he was buried and saw his stone. Went to Anne Hathaway's cottage. Saw a bedstead four hundred years old. England and Ireland and Wales are perfectly beautiful. So many quaint, picturesque houses about the country especially.

Carlton Hotel, Edinburg, July 17.

In Glasgow we went for a drive in brakes, visiting the art gallery and museum and the municipal building, the interior of which was magnificent, being finished in marble and beautiful woods. Visited "Bobbie" Burns birthplace and the monument to his memory where there is a monument of Tam O'Shanter. The drunkenness and poverty in Glasgow are terrible. There is more drunkenness than in any other city in Europe.

Yesterday we had a ride on Loch Lomond and Loch Kathrine in which we saw Ellen's Isle which Scott has written about. There were occasional islands and everything was so beautifully green. Reached here last night and this morning went to St. Giles church, which is very old. This afternoon drove in brakes and saw the grand view from Carlton Hill on which is an observatory and several monuments. Near the observatory is the high school modeled after the temple of Thesus. King Edward attended there before going to Christ College at Oxford. From my room I can see the Frith of Forth.

Visited Holyrood Palace where Mary Queen of Scotts lived. Was partly built by Charles the I and James the IV. The chapel which is the oldest part and a ruin, was built in 1200 and something. Several of the James are buried there and there are many old paintings and much old furniture. We saw where John Knox and Burns had lived. There are monuments here to Scott and Burns and Lincoln and Garfield.

We are surely having cold weather and wearing all of our winter clothing, but are thankful that we have had only a little rain.

CHANGE IN LIBRARY BOARD.

At the regular meeting of the library board, September 1st, the resignation of Mrs. Lillian S. Wells as secretary was read and accepted and Mrs. R. A. Blackburn was elected to that office. The following resolution was adopted by the library board:

Resolved, That while accepting the resignation of Mrs. Lillian S. Wells, as secretary of the library board, it is with great reluctance and deep regret on the part of the board, and further be it

Resolved, That as a board we wish to express to Mrs. Wells our appreciation of the capable manner in which she has performed the duties of her office.

The executive ability displayed, the enthusiasm and untiring efforts to further the interests of the library have been of incalulable value to the library and that we hope her interest in this institution will not cease, but be one of the permanent assets of the city library.

At a meeting of the city trustees, Sept. 6th, Mrs. Wells was appointed to succeed herself on the library board but declined reappointment and the resignation was therefore accepted.

Mrs. Wells was one of the five ladies in the Tuesday Afternoon Club who formed the state traveling library board and established the first free library in Glendale. During the first year with the assistance of James H. Wells, Jr., she acted as librarian, both giving without remuneration their time and talent for public good.

When the little library came under municipal direction, Mrs. Wells was made a member of the library board and was elected secretary of that organization, holding this office up to the present time. Her interest in library work was unremitting. She attended district meetings of library associations and took all other means to qualify herself for helping to build up a permanent institution which would benefit the public and be a credit to the city. Her pen has been ready to give publicity to library affairs and to promote interest in the library. Mrs. Wells has presented the library with a compilation which will be of great value to the library in the future. In a neatly bound book lettered "History of Glendale Public Library" is to be found all press notices which arranged in it in sequence are indeed a history of the library, containing as they do, notices of meetings, donations, entertainments given for benefit of library, visits of state officials, organization of municipal library, etc. A very interesting volume and largely from the pen of Mrs. Wells and printed in the GLENDALE NEWS. Mrs. Wells successor has not yet been appointed.

GLENDALE RIVALS CENTRAL AMERICA.

Ma. and Mrs. John Metcalf of Los Angeles but formerly of this city, accompanied by their cousin, Mr. Herman Tohl, have been visiting in Glendale. Mr. Tohl is an eminent capitalist of Guatemala, Central America. He owns one of the largest coffee plantaions in that district and is president of one of its principal railroads, but upon visiting the San Fernando valley he was so delighted that he declares he is tempted to dispose of his railroad and his coffee plantation and come to Glendale to remain permanently. Needless to say Glendale would be pleased to welcome Mr. Tohl to her sunshine.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS ARE POETIC.

Through some hook or crook H. M. Overton has come into possession of one of the school books of a fair member of the local high school and in perusing the pages, seeking for the name of the owner, he came across the following rhyme:

For a bogus dime it cost my dad,
And when you die the Lord will say
'What made you steal that book away'
And if you say, 'I do not know,'
Then He will say, Please step below!'"

This book will immediately be returned to its owner.

The following items were crowded out of last week's issue:

ATTEMPTED BURGLARY.

About 4:15 Tuesday, Mr. C. H. Allen, who resides at 128 Kenwood street, heard some one evidently attempting to secure entrance into the house through a screened window. He jumped up, called out a warning to the prowler and fired three shots into the darkness. Examination showed that the screen had been cut out. The shots went wild and the would-be burglar made his escape.

BIRTHS.

BORN: To Mr. and Mrs. Edson Grant on Fifth street, a 10-lb. baby girl.

There was born on Tuesday morning last to Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Pierce of Banning, a daughter, who came into the world at the residence of Mr. W. J. Pierce, 330 Everett street.

A son, born to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ward on the morning of Saturday, finished its brief earthly life the evening of Sunday. The mother is making satisfactory progress in recovery under the care of Dr. Chase.

GLENDALE BAND.

On Tuesday evening the band members met and formally organized. Mr. F. E. Thorpe was elected director; J. F. McIntyre, treasurer; H. Carey, property man; and G. H. Barager, manager.

The members meet every Tuesday evening at 552 W. Fourth street, for rehearsal. At present they are practicing concert music and expect to give a street concert sometime in the near future.

Any musicians in the vicinity who desire to join the band will apply to G. H. Barager, manager, at 548 W. Fourth street.

A MONKEY TALE.

"I went to the animal fair,
The birds and beasts were there."

Once upon a time there was a man and this man's name was Brand. Mr. Brand owned a lot of animals which he kept caged up in his back yard. One day he took Mrs. Brand and went away on a long journey and while they were gone the monkeys became very lonesome and after seriously discussing the matter two of them decided that if society would not come to them they would go to society, perhaps they had heard of Mohammed. Thus it was that they decided to escape.

"And the boys around the monkey's cage
Had better keep out of the way."

Therefore they watched their opportunity, and one day they evaded their keepers and set out to make a series of formal calls. They called on Mrs. George Mitchell, but finding that she was not at home they proceeded to Mrs. Daniel Campbell's, where their visit was thoroughly appreciated. Then just to prove that they were not narrow-minded they honored Casa Verdugo with their presence and discovering that it was a place after their own hearts they decided to stay, and here it was that Mr. Brand found them when he returned home.

After gravely considering the offense Mr. Brand decided to punish the leader of the affair by presenting him to Casa Verdugo and condemning him to remain there forever and ever. (Query, did Mr. Brand want to punish the monkey or has he a grudge against the Casa?) After that the rest of them lived happily ever after.

COUNTRY CLUB NOTES.

The social season of the Maids and Matrons will open with their first Third Monday on Sept. 19th. Mrs. L. C. Brand will preside as hostess of the occasion.

On Monday evening, Sept. 19th, and on every Monday following during the winter season the Country Club will be open to receive its members for a social evening which may be spent in cards, dancing or social intercourse just as the fancy dictates.

TOURNEY DANCE.

At the Country Club on Saturday evening the participants of the Valley Tournament and their friends gathered together for their annual tournament dance.

At the end of the ninth dance Mr. L. C. Brand presented the victors with their trophies after an appropriate speech. To Mr. Nat Browne who won the men's singles was accorded the honor of having his name engraved on the cup and he was also presented with a handsome stine. In men's doubles Mr. Gaston Ganahl and Mr. Clyde Wallace were duly presented with pearl scarf pins; in mixed doubles Mr. Ganahl received a pair of gold cuff links and Miss Eleanor Richards a hand-painted brooch; for ladies' singles Miss Eleanor Richards received a unique copper kettle, and also the privilege of having her name inscribed on the ladies' loving cup.

A number of out of town guests were present besides the many residents of the valley, all of whom report that they enjoyed a thoroughly delightful evening.

Ghosts Around

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1910, by Associated Literary Press.

Old Peter Baines had lived alone on the outskirts of Taylorsville for a dozen years, attracting no attention. Then some villager saw a ghost. Peter asked the full particulars and was thenceforth considered a believer in ghosts.

Next he inherited $15,000; then his neighbors began to pay him marked attention.

Miss Nancy Beebe, an old maid of nearly forty, had never married because she was homely and had no money. Miss Prudence Higgins was in the same fix. The widow Henderson could marry again if she had a couple of thousand; so could the widow Drew. Mrs. John White was a married woman, but while her husband was a carpenter she had aristocratic tastes and couldn't carry them out for the want of money.

These five women not only heard that old Peter believed in ghosts, but each one arranged her program to have a ghost pay him a midnight visit. He hadn't got his money yet when one night at the most solemn hour and while he was sleeping with his window open a scratching on the casing awoke him to ask what was wanted. It was the first night he had ever been disturbed.

"Peter," said a hollow voice that started the sweat on him, "Nancy Bebee is very unhappy!"

"Is that so?" he replied.

"Yes, and it rests with you to make her happy. I am the ghost of her dead mother. I charge you to give her the sum of $2,000 as soon as you get your money. She will marry, and she will bless you. Fail not, Peter—fail not—lest the smallpox comes to you!"

"She shall have it," replied Peter as he looked out of the window and saw an object in white gliding away. On the next night he was wide awake, but lying on his bed, when a second ghost paid him a visit. He had figured that there was more than one ghost in the world and that there might be another caller. He heard a soft rustling, a cold breeze blew in at the window, and a scary voice announced:

"Peter Baines, do good with your money or you will be found dead. Prudence Higgins is a sad, sad girl. She may commit suicide. If she does you will be to blame for it. You can save her life and make her happy by giving her $2,000. Do it, Peter, and live to be a hundred years old."

"Yes, I'll do it. I want to live to be a hundred. What ghost are you?"

"Her grandmother's."

And another white object floated over the grass and through a gap in the fence and was swallowed up in the gloom of night. Some men would have gone around telling what they had seen, but old Peter kept a still tongue and prepared himself for other visits from other ghosts. Where there were two there must be three, the same as crows. He reasoned correctly. On the third night a third ghost appeared. She was being waited for, and old Peter was not so badly scared when a voice reached his ear, saying:

"Peter, grim death is all around you! It dies on wings and stalks on legs. It looks for a victim. It stands at you gate and stares at your house."

"But tell it to pass on," replied Peter. "I want to live to be a hundred years old."

"Then do as I tell you. You know the widow Drew. Make her happy. Give her a chance. When you get your money give her $1,000. It is little to you, but much to her."

"Wouldn't a hundred do?" asked old Peter as he began to feel stingy.

"Shall I beckon to death to come and enter this window?" menaced the ghost.

"No, no, no! The widder shall have her thousand. I didn't know but a hundred would do, but I see it won't. Whose ghost are you?"

"That of a gypsy woman who was murdered. Beware of my anger. Do not play me false. I go—I go—I go!"

And she "goed." She seemed to get hung for a moment in the gap, and the old man thought he heard the ripping of cloth, but she got clear and disappeared before he was sure. He didn't want any more ghosts in his. He had seen three and promised $5,000 out of his legacy. The pace was too hot. Next night he shut and nailed down the window, but it was in vain. The fourth ghost came and announced that he must provide for the widow Henderson or prepare to be haunted all the rest of his life by evil spirits. He hung off for a few minutes, but the sighs and groans and scratchings on the glass were too much for him. The widow Henderson was to receive $1,500 in cash.

On the next night old Peter took some bedding and lay down under the currant bushes, where no fifth ghost could find him. He kept wide awake and alert. At midnight he saw ghost No. 5 appear. She glided for his bedroom window. She was just about to appeal to him when four other ghosts showed up. The five stood and looked at each other for a moment. Then human voices were heard calling names. Then human hands and feet moved, and the five ghosts were clawing and scratching and mixing things up, and when the scrap was over old Peter turned out of his nest and found five badly torn and mussed bed sheets lying on the grass, along with combs, hairpins and other things. None ever came back, and he saved his cash.

SOCIALIST MEETING.

The Socialists held their regular weekly meeting at K. of P. hall last Tuesday evening and heard an address by Mr. Thomas Williams, their candidate for Congress. The subject of the speaker's address was labor, which he declared is not in this day and generation honorable. His audience apparently agreed with him in the general proposition that men work because they have to and not for the love of it. He declared that the purpose of socialism is to do the greatest good to the greatest number, a proposition which one of his auditors demurred to when the time came for asking questions, as he thought it should be to do the greatest good to everybody. In replying to this Mr. Williams explained that it would always be impossible to do good to a certain class of people who would not be willing to accept it. In short, he said, the recipient of good must co-operate or he will not receive it. The audience was small.

Rev. W. C. Botkin, who has been here for the past year, will leave for the annual general conference which will be held at Fresno, Monday night. The ministerial party will go from Los Angeles in a train of special standard Pullman sleepers and chair cars. Breakfast will be served at the church at Vasalia, the party arriving at Fresno at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning.

The final meeting for the year of the Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary societies have been held and the reports show that the members have done very efficient work this year.

Miss Lucy B. Metzger, a deaconess of the Methodist church, who worked under Rev. Botkin for a year at San Pedro, has been passing a week with Rev. and Mrs. Botkin at the parsonage on Central avenue. Miss Metzger has just returned from an extended tour in Ohio.

The Epworth League of this church will give a birthday social in the church on the evening of September 27th, next Tuesday evening. With each invitation issued a small sack for each member of the family has been enclosed and in this the one invited is supposed to bring a penny for each year of his or her life. A special musical and literary program has been prepared and excellent refreshments will be served. The public is invited.

TROPICO IMPROVEMENT WORK.

The good road improvement work at Tropico is slowly but surely progressing. The road from Los Angeles is almost completed as far north as the Pacific Electric tracks, and grading has been completed as far north as the Tropico Mercantile company's store, and is now being continued up to Tropico avenue, and probably will be several hundred yards farther north before the end of this week. Stone has been laid along the center of the San Fernando road to a point to Tropico avenue and this work is going farther north every day. This month should see the work being done as far north as Parke avenue.

Central avenue west of the San Fernando road, has been graded and is now being oiled and tamped. This work is being done by the Richardson Company. When completed this avenue will be wide and beautiful. Along either side of the street are rows of mammoth pepper and eucalyptus trees. Central avenue at its intersection with Tropico avenue has been blocked, interrupting traffic. This is done so that the ranchers and tourists will be turned toward Glendale avenue, along which avenue they can go to the San Fernando road, thence along the good road to Los Angeles.

Work is being rushed on the new block being erected by J. A. Logan and Andrew Stevenson on San Fernando road just north of Central avenue on the west side of the street. The dust is flying in every direction. With this block going up and the bank building just completed it looks as though Tropico would be something after all, and that at an early date.

WEST GLENDALE

Mrs. Charles Hurlburt of Los Angeles was the week-end guest of Mrs. J. J. Schemp, 1442 West Fourth street.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Addison were guests at diner on Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Stine.

Mrs. Ross Boyd entertained friends from Los Angeles on Tuesday. She was assisted in receiving by her sister, Mrs. Dore.

Mrs. Herbert Kennedy and daughter, Mildred, of Central avenue, are at home again, after spending the summer in Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Kelty have returned from a most enjoyable vacation of two weeks spent in San Francisco and vicinity.

Mrs. C. E. Clay is expected to arrive either Saturday or Sunday. She has been spending the past two months with her parents in Provo, Utah.

Miss Grace Sumner of Northfield, Minn., has been the guest of Mrs. Ralph Dore at her home on Ivy street for the past week.

Among the auto purchasers of late is Mr. L. G. Dodge, 1435 West Fourth street, who is the proud owner of a fine Studebaker, four passenger car.

Mr. J. C. Sherer favored us with a visit during the week and was very much surprised at the way our end of town was growing. We will be pleased to have Mr. Sherer call at any time.

The West Glendale school has kept its promise and a little more. The two hundred mark was reached by the end of the first week and nine more new scholars on Tuesday, making the present attendance 209.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Stine, together with Mrs. Richard Addison, were guests at an elaborate luncheon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Perkins of Pasadena. Other guests at the table were Mrs. Roy Kirkpatrick, son and daughter.

A fine new residence is under construction on Hawthorne street, west of Columbus avenue; another on Seventh street, and several more in the vicinity, which goes to show that the building industry is certainly not at a standstill.

Mr. Cheney and family, after many wanderings, have at last decided that Glendale is not quite warm enough and will leave shortly for the Imperial Valley, where you don't even have to use a fireless cooker to prepare your meals.

Mrs. J. W. Everett entertained a party of friends at her home on Hawthorne street, on Tuesday evening in honor of Mr. Everett's birthday. An elaborate supper was served, and the evening hours whiled away with music, conversation, etc., and a jolly time was had by all.

The population of West Glendale was rather depleted on Tuesday and Wednesday, the chief attraction being the circus in Los Angeles. The children, of course, were simply in their glory, everything being entirely new, but the old folks,—well they merely went along to take care of the children.

Letters received from Mrs. Lester Woolley, who left Glendale a few weeks ago for Coalinga, states that the weather in that part of the country is a trifle warmer than here. The thermometer registered most of the time from 118 to 120 degrees. Mr. Woolley is doing an excellent business in Coalinga.

Richard Stine, who is attending U. S. C., is at present making his headquarters at Hodges hall in Los Angeles, and favors Glendale with a visit on Saturday and Sunday only. Richard was billed for the football team on Wednesday, and we sincerely hope he will "come out on top," instead of underneath.

The people of West Glendale are up in arms over the stand that the water company has taken in forcing them to make a trip to the city in order to pay their water rent. There is talk of sending in a petition to the company asking them to either send a collector or reduce the present rate for the water—which is entirely too high, even though it is collected at your own door.

FIRE!

At four o'clock Saturday morning the fire department was called out to Mr. S. Meadow's home on Jackson street.

Mr. Meadows had worked until one o'clock that morning and had his furniture all packed up ready to move in the morning to their new home on the corner of Brand boulevard and Burchett street.

At one o'clock Mr. Meadows stopped to get himself a lunch. He lit a fire in the wood stove, the upper chimney caught fire and the conflagration started in the second story.

It was twenty minutes after the alarm was sent in before the fire bell rang, but when the fire department finally reached the scene they covered themselves with glory. Owing to the fact that the furniture was packed it was nearly all saved with the exception of a handsome new baby grand piano.

The house is the property of Mr. Pratt, who formerly resided in Glendale. It is now demolished beyond repair.

RECEPTION TO REV. EUGENE HAINES.

A pleasant social event takes place at K. of P. hall this evening when Rev. Eugene Haines, the pastor of the Baptist church, who recently arrived here with his family, will be welcomed to Glendale.

A speech of welcome to the city will be made by "Mayor" John Robert White, Jr. Rev. H. Russell Greaves will deliver an address of welcome to the Baptist Convention, of which Mr. Greaves is secretary. A welcome to the Ministers' Association of Glendale will be spoken by Rev. J. F. Humphreys, while Mr. H. F. Fryer will express the welcome on behalf of the church. The event is intended to be a popular one and everybody is invited. Music and refreshments will be features of the program.

Rev. Haines and family are at home on Milford street west of Central.

SERIOUS BURNS.

Steven Fairchild, the seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Fairchild, who was very seriously burned a short time ago, it at last on the road to recovery.

Under the skillful operation of Drs. Tholen and Thompson, fifty grafts of skin were made on the boy's arm and side last Friday, since which time he has steadily improved. The accident occurred about six weeks ago.

A few aphorisms of scientific Socialism acrostically arranged by W. C. Strickler.

Sin is the legitimate child of individualism.

Competition and labor-saving machinery will force Socialism upon us. We cannot prevent it.

"Irrepressible conflict" exists between labor and capital. The Socialists hope the conflict can be settled peacefully, and not as the other conflict was, by civil war.

Eternal justice for all is all we ask, and, "by the eternal," we are going to have it, or know why.

Nothing short of a square deal to everyone will satisfy the Socialists.

There must be something wrong when society produces millionaires and mendicants.

If God is our Father, then we must all be very closely related.

Freedom from all kinds of slavery for man, woman and child is all we ask.

If you condemn before you investigate, you will always be ignorant. This applies to all subjects.

Competition has filled the earth with crime. Co-operation will cut the catalogue in half.

Socialism is an aspiration and a determination on the part of the workers of the world to become masters of their own destiny.

Opportunity, or a "square deal," is what the Socialists will guarantee to everyone, capitalist and worker.

Christ taught Socialism pure and simple, and if you are one of His disciples you are a Socialist.

Investigate Socialism, and if you have a good head and kind heart you will become a Socialist.

Anyone who is not willing to give "the other fellow" a fair chance is not far removed from the hog.

Lincoln said: "Labor is prior to capital." Therefore, labor is the father and mother of capital.

"Inasmuch as ye did it not to one of the least of these ye did it not to Me."—Jesus.

Slowly but surely, greed and godlessness is being driven from the earth. Justice, peace and plenty are coming to all.

Many people pray "Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven," and then vote the Republican or Democratic ticket. Strange, isn't it?

Yes, they are now here with their joys and problems. But the greatest PROBLEM of all falls upon the good mothers to prepare the DAILY LUNCHES. Bread and butter are two of the most necessary "ingredients" for a lunch. What is a lunch without bread and butter? And what is bread if it is not

FIRST THIRD MONDAY.

The maids and matrons of the Country Club opened their social season this week with the first of their series of third Mondays.

Guests were admitted by Mrs. Leon H. Hurtt, who has been appointed official doorkeeper for the year, and were greeted by Mrs. L. C. Brand, who was more than efficient as hostess of the occasion.

The afternoon was pleasantly spent playing five hundred, and at the end of the games very handsome prizes were presented to Mrs. Keller, a guest of the afternoon, and to Mrs. Bartlett, a member.

Refreshments were served by the younger members.

The invited guests were as follows: Mrs. Ernest Morgan, Mrs. Frank Hester, Mrs. Keller, Mrs. Meisen, Mrs. Wheeler, Miss Bertha Petersen, Miss Elizabeth Pepper, Mrs. Enoch Pepper, Mrs. C. F. Tholen, Mrs. Payne, Mrs. Balthis, Mrs. E. M. Turck, Mrs. Batcheller and Mrs. Klingelsmith.

Monday evening the club house was opened to its members, who enjoyed themselves in dancing, card playing or social intercourse, just as the spirit moved them. The club will be open to its members every Monday evening during the winter season.

A PINK TEA.

Mrs. Amiee Winifred Bailey entertained at "The Peppers" on Friday last, to compliment Mrs. John Adair Peebles, of Los Angeles, a recent bride.

Twenty guests gathered under the large pepper trees, where tea was served at 5 o'clock by Miss Cora Ward. Every possible feature carried out the color idea of pink and white.
